...the story of the MEDA chicken is quite interesting. We need to sing it in an ambolo.

Dr. Mat Tezock

Those who say the MEDA chicken crossed the road are correct. Those who say the chicken did not cross the road are also correct. What is important in the chicken family is for all chickens to be on the same side of the road so that they can help each other and take part in communal development. Iforti ya kah.

Ni Chris Fomunyoh

I am a very busy person. If you have something more important to ask me get straight to the point. Don't ask me about any chicken. Do I look like a chicken? Does Matti look like a chicken.. ..hei Embelli

The chicken crossed the road yesterday. What we are saying today is that the chicken is back on this side of the road. The other chickens kept it awake all night and it felt its life was in danger and had to cross back. If you were the chicken what will you do?

Let the chicken speak for itself. A chicken cannot just get up and tell everyone why the other chicken crossed the road without asking or consulting. Chickens should speak for themselves or consult with others before speaking on their behalf.

Ni Fongang Mbanwie

The chicken wanted change and I am surprised that everyone is asking why. It is interesting how we embrace change selectively.

Ni Fon Tenyah

This chicken can talk the talk and walk the walk. He also does not like Gari & Okro laced with sand sand on the table. He is not afraid to bring forth suggestions on how to get rid of the sand sand from the gari.

Ni James Wenong

... that is a good question! Guess who will know? Let's run it by Ni Chris or Ni Sam.

Ma Rose Ndamukong

Who is the owner of the chicken in the first place? Sometimes we need to advice these young chickens not to cross the road or throw reckless accusations. They cannot just move carelessly like ash holes.

Ni Tar Marshal

If the people wants the chicken to cross the road who is the chicken to say no? The Chicken should cross. It can be very hard sometimes to know if it is the chicken crossing the road or the road crossing the chicken.

Bobbe Ndamukong

How do you know the chicken crossed the road? Did you see it? You can only say the chicken crossed the road if you saw the chicken cross the road or saw the chicken on the other side. You must be analytical. Again, when you say the chicken cross the road, is there any plausible or justifiable motive for the chicken to cross the road? You must be strategic. You must look at all angles.

Ni August Acha

An ethnological phyletic specimen of identical plumage congregates in close proximity. A dozen chicks, in phenomenal conformity, all spotless, but for a tinted sib, perambulated uptown. Subject to Sadamic-Taylority, her mothers' trademark and elephantine furry from her siblings she crossed the road but still continued moving up town towards Ikan. The sides were different but the direction same. Bah was not home.

Cliff Acha

... the MEDA chicken is so block-headed. No doubt it is not making any progress. To say that having a clear and transparent process of doing things is going to cause disunity amongst the chickens is very disingenuous. The chicken can cross and go where ever it pleases. MEDA will remain regardless.

Uncle Paul Tendoh

Who is MEDA? Does he own a chicken?

Rockzyn Ngwa

The MEDA chicken needs Jesus in its life. That is its only hope for salvation. Amen
